Restaurant in damage control

The newly established Restaurant in a popular shopping strip is facing enormous problems.

No less than five patrons developed food poisoning within a week of its doors being opened to the public. The local health Inspector is investigating after receiving complaints from family and friends of the victims.

The Restaurant Management is in damage control mode and is pointing fingers at suppliers for delivering unsatisfactory food. A reliable source pointed to poor procedures relating to maintaining food hygiene. The Restaurant will be shut down until the investigation is completed. An investigation by the local council is yet to be completed.
